

June 1st-Galway Preservation Society-6:00 pm-Annual pot luck dinner for members and new members. Bring a dish, meet new friends and join the Galway Preservation Society. Membership is $10 annually per family or household. The program at 7:00 follows and is open to the public, free of charge.

This month's program, "Galway Pottery Works, a Historical Perspective" will be presented by Arlene Rhodes and Sue Wemple. At least two generations of the Hodgson/Hudson family produced salt-glazed stoneware in the Town of Galway from the 1830s to 1860s. Members of the Galway Preservation Society have conducted an inventory of existing pieces of Galway stoneware, organized public exhibits and arranged for reproductions of the local pottery. Anyone who has pieces of stoneware from the Galway factory is encouraged to bring them to the program.

Both the pot luck dinner and program will be held at the Galway Town Hall, 5910 Sacandaga Road, Galway, 12074.
